Woman's Wonderful Bell.
A queer story which occurred in a factory of Barre, is told to be one of the largest in the world and is called "The Bell with the Wall of a Child in its voice," says the New York Times. When first the bell sounded, with a harsh and cracked note, and the superstitious employees, fearing an ill omen, consulted with its manager. These gentlemen held a long confab and finally stated that the bell would never sound right until a live child was given to it. The mass was then melted again and a live baby thrown into the molten metal. The wall of agony uttered by the little but as the bronze engulfed it seemed to be repeated every time the bell was tolled, and today the Koreans still claim that the wall of a child can be heard in the voice of the metal.
